Social Media Code of Conduct:

We invite you to interact with us and other users on our social media platforms. In doing so we ask that you be respectful of others and follow our code of conduct. Furthermore, we ask that comments be related to the content, original post or appropriate user posts (all other comments will be deleted.) Our code of conduct is aligned with UCLA’s Principles of Community, which can be found here. We do reserve the right to block or delete any content that violates our code of conduct, including the following:

• The use of language to create hostile and intimidating environment.
• Comments that contain personal attacks about the post author or other commenters.
• Comments that contain discriminatory or harassing language.
• Comments that contain personal information such as home addresses and phone numbers.
• Posts that promote events, products or services unrelated to UCLA.

Live Online Activities Code of Conduct:

While participating in online activities via Zoom or other platforms, we ask that you be respectful of others and follow our code of conduct. Our code of conduct is aligned with UCLA’s Principles of Community, which can be found here. We do reserve the right to block or remove individuals from the activity for any action that violates our code of conduct, including the following:

• The use of language to create hostile and intimidating environment.
• Verbal comments or posts that contain personal attacks about the post author or other commenters.
• Verbal comments or posts that contain discriminatory or harassing language.
• Verbal comments or posts that contain personal information such as home addresses and phone numbers.
• Verbal comments or posts that promote events, products or services unrelated to UCLA.
• When utilizing video:
  • Dress should be appropriate and be consistent with dress that would be worn if attending the activity in-person.
  • Please be cognizant of your background and limit any distractions so that all users can have an enjoyable experience.